Thessaloniki €25 Adults / €12 Child & Youths

This city is the second largest in Greece and is so named after Thessalonike, the wife of King Cassander of Macedon. It is a harbour city and still has a wealth of surviving monuments and archaeological sites which lie side by side to the many shops and cafeterias. Its most famous landmark is the White Tower which stands like a sentinel on the beautiful café-lined promenade. Thessaloniki has a hip atmosphere and lets you indulge in ultra-chic shopping and an energetic night-life.

Mount Olympus & Mountain Villages €45 Adults / €22 Child & Youths

Mt. Olympus is of major historical importance for modern Greece. In ancient times it was believed to be the home of the twelve most important gods in Greek mythology which is indicative of the awe that this mountainous massif provokes. It is not only impressive for its height, reaching a peak of 2918 meters, but also for its short distance from the sea. Mt. Olympus truly dominates the landscape and indeed the whole region. In 1938 Olympus was declared a National Park. Litochori is one the many traditional mountain villages dotted across Mt. Olympus Mountain range and is the starting point for hikers up to Olympus. The drive to the mountain village of Panteleimonas takes us through winding mountain roads with more breathtaking vistas of Mount Olympus as well as the beautiful Olympic Riviera below. Traditional tavernas set in the narrow, cobbled streets lure the visitor to rest and sample typical Greek food as well as shop for that perfect souvenir to take back home!
